STUDENTS, DADS WILL CELEBRATE

SATURDAY WITH GAME, LUNCHEON

Dads of Omaha U students will be in the limelight Saturday when the university celebrates its third annual Dads' Day.

All fathers of OU students will be honored at a special luncheon at 12:15 before the football game. At 2 p.m. the Indians will tackle Morningside College in the University Stadium. The luncheon is scheduled to be held in the faculty clubroom and cafeteria.

Friday students may pick up complimentary tickets for the luncheon in the first floor ticket office. The tickets will admit both the students and their fathers to the luncheon.

Members of the football team will have their fathers rooting at the sidelines. Players' dads may be identified by their sons' numerals, which the fathers will wear on their backs.

There will also be the spirit of competition on Dads' Day. A prize will be given to the student organization having the largest percentage of dads at the football game.

Student Council members in charge of Dads' Day are Jim Goode, chairman, Jim Townsend, Bill Beindorff and Diane Purdy. The committee has planned special halftime ceremonies to honor the dads.

This year a "Dad of the Day" will not be named by the Council. "We're having this day to honor all dads," said Goode.
